

Our Beliefs About the Reading–Writing Connection

WE BELIEVE

A child's written story can be used to teach phonics and skills. You can assess a child's phonemic awareness by examining his/her journal writing.

Shared writing is an excellent way to record common experiences and connect to reading.

MINERAL POINT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

